Granny Fox threw back her head and laughed and when she did that she showed all her great teeth. Somehow the sight of them made Bumpy, Frumpy and Grumpy feel very uncomfortable.
"Bless your dear little hearts." cried Granny, "you haven't begun to see the Great World yet! There are the most wonderful things to do and to see and to hear, but without some one to show you where they are you will never find them. It is very lucky I happened along just now, very lucky, indeed. I have lived in the Great World a long time and I know all about it. You come with me and I will show you all these wonderful things. And while you are with me no one will be able to harm you. I always did love children, especially little Possums, and I will be just delighted to show you the Great World. The three little Possums had been told never to trust Reddy or old Granny Fox, but now that they had seen Granny for themselves, and found her so pleasant and so willing to show them the things they wanted to see, they began to think that Unc' Billy and Mrs. Possum really didn't know Granny Fox at all. Granny saw what was going on in their foolish little minds and she turned her head to hide a smile.

"I know you don't trust me, my dears," said she. "Probably you have been told terfible stories about me. But you mustn't believe all you hear or you never will get anywhere in the Great World. Use your common sense. Be independent and act for yourselves. How do you expect to find the wonderful things in the Great World unless some one who knows where they are shows you the way? Never have I seen such fine, smart Possums at your age and nothing would please me more than to show you all those things you want to see."

Granny Fox Is Very Pleasant.

A smooth and oily tongue is said
By those who ought to know,
To be more dangerous than a sword;
And some have proved it so.

When the three little Possums,
Bumpy, Grumpy and Frumpy, had reached a place of safety in a tree and looked down at old Granny Fox they did not see all they had expected.
They had been warned against Old Granny Fox. Yes, indeed, Mother Possum had warned them time and again against Granny Fox. They had been warned against Old Granny Fox and Reddy Fox. She had told them that these two could always be known by their red coats and that they were very fierce and cruel.

So when the three little Possums

I think she is very nice," whispered Bumpy.
Think she is very nice," whispered Bumpy.
Think she is very nice," whispered Bumpy.
"T think she is very nice," whispered Bumpy.
"T think she is very nice," whispered Bumpy.
"Mother Possum couldn't have really known her at all," said Frumpy.

"A whother Possum couldn't have really known her at all," said Frumpy.

"A wish she didn't lick her lips so much," grumbled Grumpy.

Meanwhile, old Granny Fox waited patiently at the foot of the tree. "I tell you what it is, my dears," said she, at last, "I will go off down the Lone Little Path far enough for you to feel perfectly safe in coming down. You are quite right in being careful and cautious and it does you great credit. Never trust strangers until you have proved that they are to be trusted. When you have come down I will lead them you can follow me at a safe distance. To herself she added, "I will lead them where there are no trees to climb," and she turned her head to smack her lips at the thought.

Then old Granny Fox deliberately turned her back and trotted down the Lone Little Path until they could just see her red cloak. Once more the three little Possums looked at each other and the three little Possums loo men when they are wanted. lamps are placed upon steel poles about ten feet high. A green lamp flashes rays out over a radius of 2,500 square feet at a juncture of four streets. The light is controlled by a push button, located at the police station. It flashes at four-second intervals, until the officer has communicated with his chief same pole so that any one in need of an officer can call him. This button is placed high up in order to be out of each of the small boy who might flash a light call for the police as a fiash a light call for the police as a mischievous prank. But the light will not continue to fiash unless the person wanting the officer continues to press it, so that it is believed few false calls will be given. The person desiring police aid must stand at the pole until the officer responds to the call.

Ten of these light calls have already been installed. They are located in the lower tenderloin district. Others are to be placed as fast as they can be manufactured, as it is intended to put this system of police signaling in operation throughout the city.
